

Relative Merits Of Death Penalty For Murder Discussed

MacLeish And Kelloway Represent McGill Against Dalhousie

H. F. MONROE JUDGE
Judgment To Be Rendered This Evening Over CFCF

Last night marked the inauguration of an inter-university debating schedule of the air, with McGill debating Dalhousie, University of Montreal debating Laval, and the University of Toronto, debating the University of Western Ontario. The McGill-Dalhousie debate, which was broadcast over CFCF at 7.15, was on the resolution, "Resolved That Capital Punishment Should Be Abolished." Representing McGill, on the Affirmative, were John A. MacLeish '35, and Eli C. Kelloway, '35, while Dalhousie was represented by Howard Oxley, and John Fisher.

MacLeish, in opening the debate for McGill, stated that capital punishment is unsound, because, by it, society fails to recognize its duty to the individual. Society helps create the murderer, and then destroys its own creation. Society discriminates between the stock manipulator, and the armament manufacturer on the one hand, while it punishes the man who is a blunderer in crime, who has not had the ingenuity to devise a legal means of murder, as has the armament manufacturer. The speaker quoted the report of the Committee on Capital Punishment of the British House of Commons, which reported that the death penalty should be abolished.

Capital Punishment Proven
Howard Oxley, speaking for Dalhousie, stated that capital punishment has been tried and proven for 2000 years. In critical times, he said, we must fight fire with fire. Capital punishment is not State revenge; it is a safeguard to the sanctity of human life. It is the most effective check upon murder. He traced the history of the repeal of capital punishment, showing how in each case, it had to be re-instated.

Eli C. Kelloway, continuing the argument for McGill, stated that capital punishment is against the trend and history of civilization. Scientific penology, he said, has three aims:
1) To indemnify the victim;
2) To correct the guilty one;
3) To defend society against the recurrence of crime.

In the case of the first two, killing the murderer does not solve the problem. As to the third, most murders are committed in a moment of passion, when the murderer does not think of the consequences. The State cannot create life, and therefore should not destroy it. Society has no right to

Vegetation Of Land Harmed By Insects

H. A. V. Munro Gives Illustrated Lecture To Biological Society

Most foreign insects have come into Canada through the United States. With words to this effect, H. A. V. Munro, a graduate student of McGill who has done some work in etymology for the Dominion government, began his lecture entitled, "Fighting Foreign Pests." This was given before the Biological Society yesterday afternoon. Resistance against foreign insects, the speaker stated, comes from three sources. The biologist fights them from a scientific viewpoint. He imports parasites from other countries who are the natural enemies of the pests. These enter their host, as it were, and succeed in killing him. The climate of Canada is a very important factor in combating unwanted insects. Many insects could not live through the cold Canadian winter and therefore they do not take up an abode here. Then there are the artificial means of fighting insects. These are methods which the farmer employs, such as spraying poison on the affected plants. Governments have spent much money in fighting this evil. This year the N.R.A. voted two million dollars to be spent in fighting foreign pests.

Illustrating with lantern slides, the speaker then gave several examples of these insects, and described the means used to fight them. The well known Gypsy moth has now been entirely eradicated from Canada. This has been accomplished by introducing parasites and also by using lead arsenic or burning the eggs. Unfortunately, the European Corn Bore has caused much trouble to scientists. Practically no success has been attained in fighting this insect. However, parasites are now being imported which, it is hoped will succeed in destroying this pest.

Former Revue Humorist Returns To Old Haunts

RETURNING once again to his old haunts, a former habitue of the little room at the end of the Union basement showed up once again, to the amusement and glee of the present occupants. McRoberts Fumblebottom, star of many a Red and White Revue in bygone days, came back "to see the old place again, bal Jove." The president of the Bombay Ball Bearing Bicycle Club appeared in good health as well as in good spirits.

He was immediately pounced upon by the Executive, and agreed to say a few words to the assembled multitude. When the room had been cleared of representatives of the press (Fumblebottom is very shy), he said his few words to a choice company consisting of several stalwarts of the old school. He urged those in charge of the destinies of the Revue this year to uphold the honour and good name of the Revue.

With tears in his eyes, he turned to the back wall of the Revue office. "Where," he sobbed, "where is the set of pictures that used to hang here, behind the Producer's desk? You youngsters are breaking traditions that were years in the making." The Producer of this year's Revue who was also in a state of incoherence, replied in a few well-chosen words, explaining the absence of the photos, which he laid to the souvenir-hunting propensities of some ill-advised person. He stated that this year's chorus will endeavour to follow in the footsteps of past Revue workers.

Concluding amid a burst of applause, he stated, "With our backs to the wall, and our shoulders to the wheel, we must soar ever upwards."

Speaker Considers Saint-Beuve Master Of French Critics

Brother Ethelbert Addressed St. James Society Last Night

VERSATILE GENIUS
Novels Unsuccessful, Though Great Works — Also Historian, Poet

Yesterday evening at 8.30 the St. James Literary Society again met in the Engineering Institute of Canada. The main feature of the meeting was a lecture by the Rev. Father Ethelbert, of the Franciscan Order; the subject being "St-Beuve, King of Literary Critics."

In the opinion of the speaker, St-Beuve was the greatest genius of criticism the French nation has yet produced. He stated that this should be of the greatest interest to the people of Quebec, living as they do amidst French personalities, thoughts and ideas.

St-Beuve, the greatest living force of French letters, was a master not only of criticism, but of poesy, history and novels.

Born in Bologne
Born in Bologne of a brilliant writer-father and English mother, he excelled in scholastic literary pursuits at a very early age.

His first literary attempts were directed towards poetry, which was remarkably yet unsuccessful. He then turned towards novel writing. His book "Volupte" as a novel is an intensely brilliant piece of writing, yet failed to grasp the attention of the French public. Next he wrote a critical history of the Port-Royals, which also met with no great degree of success.

But St-Beuve in his delightful literary portraits shows his true genius. Here he is the undisputed master of French critics and the true depths of his great genius are revealed.

Portraits Still Live
These critical portraits still live one hundred years after they were written, because of their vividness, their clear-cut portrayals of French writers, from the ancient classics to his modern contemporaries. They live because of their brief clarity of style, the great knowledge of psychology they reveal, but primarily because they are alive and human and filled with interesting anecdotes about the lives of his subjects.

Players Elect New Honorary President

Prof. Hendel Chosen At Meeting Of Club Yesterday

The Player's Club held a general meeting yesterday afternoon in the Union Grill Room. Fraser Gurd opened the proceedings by reading the minutes of the previous meeting. Ronald Leatham then informed the members of the acceptance of Professor MacDermot's resignation as Honorary President of the Player's Club. Professor C. W. Hendel was suggested by the executive to succeed Professor MacDermot. This suggestion met with the unanimous approval of the members and Professor Hendel was formally elected Honorary President.

Lawrence McGregor then read the financial report of "Rope" and announced a profit of $132.76 on the Montreal show and a profit of $72.61 on the Ottawa show. It was also announced that His Excellency, Lord Bessborough had written a letter to the Player's Club complimenting them on the excellence of "Rope."

Noel Coward's comedy "Hay Fever" has been decided upon for the next major production of the Club. The new director will be Mr. Filmore Sadler of the Montreal Repertory Theatre. Addressing the Club he stressed the need for hard work if the new play is to be ready for February 15 and 16, the dates for the production.

After this important announcement Heward Stikeman reported the plays which comprise the third and last group of Workshop Productions. The plays will be: "The Miracle" by Gordon Bourne, "Blind Spot" by Lawrence McGregor, "Hair-Raising" by Heward Stikeman. All other Workshop activities will commence this week. The meeting was then adjourned.

Players' Club
Will the following please come for further tryouts today at 2 o'clock, in addition to the new people: Colby, Miller, Gurd, Atkinson, Tait, Sweeney, Bourne, Wiele, Schecter, Bowman, Weldon, Haley, Winslow, Sprague.

Philosophy Group Continue Talks Of 'Aesthetics' Series

CONTINUING the discussion of "Aesthetics," which was being studied before the holidays, the Philosophical Society will hold its first meeting of the new year tomorrow evening at Strathcona Hall. The discussion on this subject, which was quite heated at the last few meetings, will be continued at several future meetings.

A special feature of the evening will be the presence of Professor Chambers, of the Department of Architecture at McGill, who will read a paper. It is announced that he has chosen as the subject of his speech, "Croce's Theory of Art and Life."

An announcement will be made during the evening concerning the election of the members of the new executive. As usual, anyone interested is invited to attend the meeting next Thursday evening.

Hugo Wolf One Of Best Song Writers

Frederick Fuller Gave Talk Before German Club

PLAYED RECORDINGS
Strathcona Hall Was Scene Of Lecture Given Last Night

"Although perhaps one of the greatest song writers of all times, Hugo Wolf is very little known, even in his own country," stated Frederick Fuller, M.A., at the opening of a talk which he gave to the German Club in Strathcona Hall last night. The speaker was introduced by Henry M. Schaffhausen and enlivened his address with the playing of gramophone recordings of Wolf's works.

Born in 1860, Wolf had a very sad life and died in Vienna in 1903. He devoted most of his time to the writing of songs, although he also composed an opera "The Corregidor." In all he wrote a half-dozen collections of lieder, and those songs which are mostly responsible for the reputation he enjoys are his Goethe songs. His 51 songs with words by the author of Faust were all written inside of four months. He actually wrote two a day on certain occasions.

Wolf's Songs Best
Others have written Goethe songs, Mr. Fuller stated, for instance Schumann and Beethoven set to music the famous "Kennst du das Land" from "Mignon," and Tchaikowski also wrote music for certain parts of "Wilhelm Meister," but Wolf's songs are outstanding. After he had concluded his discussion of Wolf's works as a whole.

Political Situation Seethes As Parliamentarians Meet

McGill And Queens To Partake In Mock Parliament In Union Ballroom Tonight At 8.15 — Wm. J. Hasler To Introduce Motion On Germany — R. Young And E. Morse, Of Queens, To Oppose Motion

POLITICALLY MINDED students are promised a rare treat, as the Mock Parliament convenes at 8.15 this evening to discuss the motion "That present-day Germany Constitutes a Menace to World Peace." Political feeling has run high in local circles over this question, in view of the fact that the point at issue will undoubtedly have a bearing on the international relations of the Parliament in the near future.

Premier Introduces Motion
The Prime Minister, the Rt. Hon. Wm. J. Hasler, will introduce the motion, supported by his most able henchman, John Winston Kerr. The Leader of the Opposition, the Hon. Robt. Young, has made a special trip from Queen's University in order to save the parliament from making what he considers to be the greatest error in its history of international relations. He will be aided and abetted by Eric Morse, also of Queen's, and Henry Schaffhausen, McGill, Law '36.

It will indeed be remarkable if that experienced parliamentarian, Wilsoor Becket, will be able to preserve order in a House "when preliminary statements have been so heated and so reckless. The Officials of the House have been warned in advance, and are ready to eject any whose behaviour is not in accordance with the traditional calm of the deliberative body.

Grads' Informal Takes Place In Union Tomorrow

This departure from established customs received comment from the local press, according to which this venture was creating inter-

The League will uphold the affirmative of the resolution, "Resolved that the advent of women into business and political life is a desirable feature of modern civilization," against the Knights of Columbus, in the ballroom of the Union, at 8.15 in the evening.

Representing the McGill Junior Debating League will be Clarence R. Gross and Philip Vineberg, both of whom have taken an active interest in debating, both in and outside of college debating circles. The result of this debate will decide whether or not McGill will be eligible to enter the semi-final competition for the Beatty Cup, which we won last year. The public is invited, and a large attendance is expected.

Plans For Journal Nearing Completion

Prominent Campus Figures Will Contribute Articles

Plans for the Arts Undergraduates Magazine are nearing completion. The suggestion was evidently not taken that students take advantage of the opportunity to test their literary skill during the spare time afforded by the Christmas holidays. More stories, articles and poems have yet to be received. Dean Mackay, Gerald Halpenny and other prominent campus figures, however, have contributed already. The deadline for contributions is February 1. The new journal will probably appear on the campus about the first of March.

The committee wishes to stress the fact that women undergraduates are also especially asked to contribute. All students may send in contributions, whether they are in the faculty of Arts or not. The material will be judged according to the literary merits and its interest to students. All types of short stories, poems, short plays and articles of general interest are requested. Contributions are to be left with Bill Gentleman in the Arts Building.

New Club Founded

Psychology Students To Hold Meeting Next Week

A new society will be founded on the McGill campus next week. On Thursday, February 1 at eight o'clock, a meeting will be held in Strathcona Hall for the purpose of founding a Psychological Society. All psychology students are cordially invited to be present.

An address will be given by Mr. A. Bols, a graduate student in psychology. The subject of the address will be announced later.

Refreshments will be served for which there will be a charge of ten cents.

Spanish Club
There will be a meeting of the Spanish Club in the Union at 8.30 tonight. The speaker will be Mr. C. F. Denton whose address will be entitled "Hiking through the Pyrenees."

Senior Hockey Team Meets Canadiens In Home Game

Gaudette's Scoring Lead Threatened By Redmen

Farquharson, Farmer Close On Heels Of Group Leader — Bobby Bell In Quest Of Fifteenth Game Without Defeat — Lafontaine, Vics Clash In Second Tilt

WHETHER or not Dr. Bobby Bell's red-shirted troupe can successfully negotiate their fifteenth game of the season without winding up on the short end of the score, a notable feat that will live for some time should they accomplish it, and whether or not Hughie Farquharson or Kenny Farmer, McGill's leading Scorers, can overhaul Roger Gaudette, fleet Canuck port-sider will be the main points of contention when the two old rivals meet tonight at the Forum. Even without these added points of interest the game would be a "natural" as Canadiens and McGill are both outstanding for their speed and the excitement usually reaches a new high when the French colour-bearers match strides with the Redmen.

McGill's Home Game
Tonight's feature attraction will be of more than passing interest to the student body as it is the first home game of the new year and students will be admitted upon presentation of their coupons. The clash is the first on the twin bill and will get under way at 8 p.m. The second attraction brings together Victorias and Lafontaine in what promises to be another battle as the points are sorely needed by both teams.

At present McGill are riding out in front, where they have been since the start and they hold a three-and-a-half point margin over Don Pennington's Royals, who were held to a 1-1 tie over the week-end by St. Francois while Canadiens picked up two points on Lafontaine to creep up to a position just two points behind the former Wheelers. A win for the collegians will give them a hold on the top rung that will be almost unbeatable as the schedule is rapidly nearing the finish. The last regular games before the play-offs commence take place on Feb. 14th. Including tonight's game McGill have four games remaining in the Senior Group, in addition to a home-and-home series with Varsity and an exhibition game on Saturday next, in Ottawa. Should Doc Clement's Flying Frenchmen emerge victorious the race for first place, would assume much closer proportions, though McGill would still have a decided edge. With the Royals idle until Sunday Canadiens have a golden opportunity to move into second place.

Women's Sports Week-end

The McGill Women Students' Athletic Association is sponsoring a week-end of winter sports at Ile aux Cerfs. Students will leave at noon on Saturday, January 27th, and return Sunday night, January 28th. The train ride is short to St. Hilaire, then follows 8 miles in a sleigh with hot water bottles and innumerable blankets. Tea awaits up at the Manor House, and then the fun begins. Skiing, skating, sliding and skijoring can all be enjoyed, and with the snow we have now, will be irresistible.

Best of all is the price: from Bonaventure station, the train rides, the sleigh rides, the meals, rooms and activities, and back to Bonaventure, Sunday night, is but five dollars. Moreover, the Athletic Association will pay one dollar of this, so the student gets a week-end of fun outdoors for four dollars, something impossible to duplicate in a similar manner elsewhere.

All women students are invited by the Athletic Association to join in this party. Come alone if you wish, this is a chance to make new friends, or come in twos and threes, but at any rate come!

Please notify Miss Munro in the Physical Education Office, Royal Victoria College (Ma. 9177) if you will join us.

Those who plan to go must hand in their names by 5 o'clock tomorrow.

College Skiers Will Race This Week-End

Varsity And Queens Enter Representatives For First Time

McGILL TO COMPETE

TORONTO Varsity and Queen's University skiers will compete for probably the first time in Canadian inter-collegiate winter sports at the Seignior Club this coming week-end in the ski meet being staged on Saturday and Sunday and attended in addition by teams from McGill, University of Montreal and St. Patrick's College, Ottawa. Undergraduate skiers from Toronto and Ottawa who heretofore starred in international intercollegiate competitions will this year have additional competitive experience prior to the international events; and new material from Toronto and Kingston may prove to be more than a match for the present Canadian stars. Though the names are not yet announced, a creditable showing is expected of the Toronto competitors, three of whom are to be entered, as the Queen City has specialised in skiing under considerable handicaps during the past three or

Dental Sophomores Eke Out Cage Win

Second Year Artisans Were The Victims In Inter-class Play-Off

FINAL SCORE 13-11

DENTISTRY II advanced a step further on the path to a play-off berth with the four first place teams of the interclass basketball league yesterday, eking out a narrow win over Arts Sophomores 13-11, on the M.H.S. gym floor.

By virtue of this victory the Dental lads move up against Medicine II, another second place team in the league standing, in a match to be played tomorrow afternoon in the High School gym. Girl's section—at 5.00 p.m. The winner of this scuffle takes on Science Frosh on Friday in the Boy's gym at the hour of 5.00 p.m.

Close Tussle

Yesterday's tussle between the Dental crew and the Arts aggregation provided another one of those tough and go struggles in which there was little to choose either in points or performance between the two squads.

Neither team could gain a substantial lead in the play despite frequent endeavours on the part of their members. Almi opened the scoring column for Dentistry but the Artisans came back with a tally of similar type as the Dental defense relaxed somewhat. Further activity in the period was featured by smart combination play by Almi and Tomasi and the rough tactics of Mancuso, all of which, however did not daunt the Artisans to any appreciable extent since they held a one-point margin on the play at half time, score being 6-5.

Persistent Efforts

Continued efforts to notch up a comfortable lead proved unavailing during the final period of the shindy. Each team forged ahead by a matter of a point or two, until the final whistle found the Dental troupe up on their opponents to the extent of a single basket. Final score, Dentistry 13, Arts 11.

The Blue team visits Montreal on Friday, February 2nd, for their local engagement while Captain Nelson Crutchfield will lead the invasion of the Queen City on the 10th for the deciding game.

R. V. C. Hockeyists Show Improvement

THE R.V.C. hockey team has shown such improvement this year over last that it has been decided to give them a chance at intercollegiate competition. A game with Queen's University, to be held in Kingston, has been arranged to take place around the tenth of February. A team from Bishop's is also expected down here around January 31st.

So far, only one game of the schedule has been played. Last week White 2's beat the Red 2's 3-0; and White 1's and Red 1's tied 2-2.

Wednesday Group

From now on only the girls whose names appear below will turn out on Wednesday at the Arena. The others will get a chance to play in the games on Thursday. The girls who are to play on Wednesdays are as follows: Chadwick, Ritchie, Schnebly, Clouston, F. Walbridge, Horner, Hughes, McPherson, Buchanan, MacDonald, Stevenson, McCuaig, Nicholson, E. Walbridge, R. Russell, Goulding.

Dartmouth Outing Club Will Preside At Carnival Meet

Act As Hosts At Twenty-Fourth Annual Winter Sports Gathering

UNDER the patronage of genial Saint Pete, whimsical satyr of snow, the Dartmouth Outing Club offers its twenty-fourth annual Winter Carnival on February ninth and tenth. Rumours from the wintry north country spread abroad by the snow bird, already fluttering excitedly in anticipation, presages days of mirth unrestrained. By foot, horse, sled, auto, and special train, they will come from grammar schools and colleges, backwoods and cities, eager to join in the happy celebration at King Winter's court. Not an invitation has been declined since a little Indian maid slapped Eleazar.

The Carnival Committee announces an unusual program of entertainment to aid in revelry. The campus will be adorned with figures in snow and ice designed to represent the spirit of Carnival. Outdoor evening promises a rare treat of thrilling adventure in polar regions. There will be a distinct satirical note. Wild explorers and dauntless Esquimaux will grapple with skis and skates in a setting of igloos and icebergs raised in snow and ice. Miss Louise Weigel, the 1932 American Olympic figure skater, and sensation of last year's Carnival, will be featured. Amid brilliant colored lights and the flare of fireworks the Queen of the Carnival and her court of beauty will be presented to the college climaxing the program. A descriptive monologue over an amplifying apparatus will give coherence to the story element.

Championship Events

The I.W.S.U. meet is the featured athletic event of Carnival. Skiers, skaters and snowshoers from over a dozen American and Canadian colleges participate in this classic of the winter sports world. On Occum Pond, Balch Hill, and in the Vale of Tempe these men of the North, braving the howls of the wolf-wind, struggle for the plaids of the costumed crowd, mottled rainbow-colored against the background of snow. International and Olympic stars should provide thrills aplenty. Of peculiar interest is the Ski-Joring Race, where horses, men, and skis tangle, biting the snow in a desperate effort to win the trophy presented by the Carnival Queen. A swimming meet with Princeton, a hockey game with Harvard, and a basketball game with Yale are the remaining athletic attractions.

The Dartmouth Players present Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe" for the Carnival show, sparkling and witty, decidedly apropos the occasion. A chorus of girls from the Oolby Glee Club sing in the production, offering tantalizing tunes less intricate than rumba rhythms. Late in the evening the fraternities hold dances, and festivity reaches a peak or perhaps this comes later, skiing and skating by floodlight.

Representatives of American and Canadian universities numbering over 100 men are expected to compete in the championship events scheduled during this period. Already entries from 81 competitors have been received.

Dartmouth Defends Crown

Dartmouth will defend her championship on this occasion which she captured in 1931 at Hanover and in subsequent years. A full team of 12 will comprise the Dartmouth representation. New Hampshire—evidently determined to be well up in the final standing—has likewise entered a 12-

Engineers Will Attempt To Retain Aquatic Crown

Various Faculties Will Offer Strong Opposition This Friday

ENGINEERING will have no easy task this Friday afternoon at the Columbus tank when they attempt to duplicate their 1933 feat of annexing the interfaculty swimming title. Fast and powerful representatives of various other faculties will be prepared to demonstrate their right to hold the crown.

The faculty of Arts, in particular is considered the most likely successor to the laurels now held by the Plumber assortment. Considering the fact that a good portion of the representatives of this faculty are former water-polo or swimming team members, the chances for an Arts victory appear bright. Pete Bourne, Shapiro, Shragovitch and McLure comprise the strongest of the Arts contingent. Other entries are expected between now and the races.

Medicine Entry Expected
Medicine has three worthy swimmers to uphold its prestige. Frank Skinner, a former member of the University of Saskatchewan aquatic squad, is considered quite an ace at the back stroke event while showing up to advantage, as well, in the free style events. Frank holds a marathon championship back in Saskatchewan where the boys go in for such things in a big way. Jim Wilson, a Pacific coast product, surprised the lads around the pool last year with his smart breast stroke performances, accomplished seemingly with a minimum of practice. This season his form is up to par, as evidenced by his showing last Saturday at the "Y" meet when he took a second place against Bercovitch the Provincial Champion. He will be seen in action on Friday. Tom Richert may make an attempt to gain some pointers for his faculty in participating in the backstroke event. Richert has shown capabilities in this stroke.

Hugh Savage, of Commerce, is the likely threat to any attempt to annex breast stroke honors. A particular rivalry exists in this class between Hugh and Wilson, the Medical swimmer. They broke just about even in competitions won last season. Butterfield another Commerce representative will compete in the diving event.

Engineering apparently will pin its championship hopes upon Captain Mark Stein and Fred Shaw, both exceptionally speedy natators. Phil French, the polo captain, may be an entry in the diving a category where he can hold his own with the best of them.

Law and Dentistry boast single representatives of topnotch calibre. Bill Sprenger, one of the best all round aquatic performers about the University is equally at home on the high board, and in the back stroke and the sprint events. He will compete for Law. Clayton Bourne, a fast free style performer will represent Dentistry.

Entries for the meet will be received right up to the time of the various races on Friday afternoon. The first event is expected to get away to a start at 5.30 p.m.

be an avenger; it should rather aim to preserve than to destroy life.

Pardons To Be Granted

Concluding the debate for Dalhousie University, John Fisher claimed that life imprisonment would be all right, if it meant actual life imprisonment. The usual procedure, however, is to grant pardons after a certain length of time. Men contemplating murder are usually deterred by the vision of the scaffold. The possibility of removal of punishment makes for an increase in murder, he stated. He concluded by stating that premeditated murders must be punished to the full extent of the law.

John MacLeish concluded the debate by a brief rebuttal. The Judge, Mr. H. F. Monroe, Superintendent of Education for Nova Scotia, will announce his decision today, and it will be announced tonight, over CFCF, at 10.30. These debates will be continued at the same time, every Tuesday evening, their object being to find the champion collegiate debating team of Canada.

Diseases Studied By Breeding Fish

Madison, Wis.—Attempting to interpret the neoplastic diseases of humans students of Cornell university are carrying on a number of experiments with tropical fish, by tracing the development of fish tumors and obtaining an inkling as to how they operate.

Dr. Myron Gordon, of the zoology department of Cornell, who has charge of the breeding work, has discovered that a cross between a platyfish and a swordtail will produce a brood of hybrids that will develop black tumors. Using this fact as a basis to work from, Dr. Gordon is experimenting with the known species of platyfish and swordtails in an effort to learn the entire history of the disease. The tumors result from the unrestrained growth of large, black pigment cells, which are originally found in the pure platyfish. The cause of the disease which is generally found only in hybrids, is attributed to the wide racial cross in which the platyfish furnishes the black pigment cell and the swordtail the intensifying factor which brings about the excessive growth.

In crossing the fish, Dr. Gordon aims to obtain a brood in which one-half of the young will develop tumors while the other will not. If this is done, the entire brood is reared in the same tank, thus making for a comparison of the affected and unaffected fish. Using this method, Dr. Gordon has proven that environment is not the fundamental factor, that the disease is not contagious and that it is not due to hereditary traits.

Marquette Co-Ed Probes Ways Of Student Economy

Milwaukee, Wis. — Could you get along on $1 per week for food? Or perhaps a fourbit piece would be sufficient each week for clothing. No? Well, there are students at Marquette university doing that very thing according to the thesis written by a student there last summer.

Journalism students, probably through force of tradition, live more cheaply than any others on the campus of the Milwaukee school. The average spent by these students was a mere $9.81 each week, whereas medical students could barely exist on $22.25 during the seven days. The average for the entire school was $14.45.

Student Sends Questionnaire
To find out all these facts, the student, Mary Louise Curran, sent out questionnaires to 293 students on the campus and from these, averages were made. The biggest figure was the local buying power of $1,000,000 during the school year.

Next in line was the average expenditure of $60 per month by each student with only an average of $40 per month income. The difference is explained in the fact that a substantial sum is sent the students at the beginning of each semester to pay tuition and secure books.

Books Average 2 Cents
Listed, the expenditures were 2 cents a week on books and 55 cents on movies; still students crab about the high cost of texts. Board amounts to $4.24 and room $2.76 per week. Clothing amounts to $1.04 per week and in keeping the clothes clean the student spends 34 cents a week.

Newspapers and magazines drain the pocketbook to the tune of 23 cents a week, and for some unknown reason some students actually use a taxi at times, the bill amounting to 1 cent a day.

The hungriest man at Marquette spent $8 every week to eat. One med student spent $10 every week to keep himself properly clothed, whereas an engineer needed $3 for dancing. The lowly journalist apparently contented himself with one dance at a nickel dance hall each week.

Dog Faithful After Death Of Master

Lima, O.—Jack is a big police dog. His master, Pat Frawley, was an alcoholic.

Pat died, but Jack's devotion to his former master lingers on. More than a year ago, Pat and his dog, Jack, pulled in to Lima. No one knew whence they came, no one cared. In an old deserted hotel Frawley and his dog found refuge. Little was seen of them, but Pat always managed to obtain liquor.

One morning neighbors heard a pitiful whining. They investigated and found Frawley sprawled on the floor. Jack stood guard over his body. Alcohol finally had conquered Frawley's resistance.

That was 13 months ago. Authorities took Pat's body from the hotel, but they could not budge Jack. He remained in the room where his master had died.

Ever since, the animal has lingered disconsolately in the vicinity of the building, venturing forth only when the pangs of hunger become too strong.

He wanders aimlessly through the many rooms, seeking something he cannot find. Often in the cheerless hours just before dawn whines can be heard within the dark and untenanted rooms.

All attempts to befriend him have failed. He prefers to keep his lonely vigil undisturbed.

100,000,000 Guinea Pigs Give Scare

Students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology were alarmed recently, when it became known that the "Tech" student paper of that institution had received the following notice: "Lost, 100,000,000 Guinea Pigs." Those students with imaginations could hear the ominous squeals of guinea pigs, stacks and stacks of guinea pigs, from the campus without. Grim thoughts filled their minds and they dashed out to the campus to find these animals, knowing only too well their reputation for perpetuating their species at a most unusual rate. Even the staunchest shuddered at the thought of the campus and buildings overflowing with 100,000,000 guinea pigs. But not a trace of the host did they see.

Meanwhile, the staff of the "Tech" went on calmly, as was their custom, to unearth the meaning of this strange communication, which, to all intents and purposes, was quite official. When they succeeded, the notice appeared thus: "Will the student who has not returned 100,000,000 Guinea Pigs to the Walker Memorial Library kindly the speaker played some recordings of his most celebrated songs, commenting on each in particular.

The first one played was "Anacron's Grave," a typical example of Wolf's art of composition. Mr. Fuller pointed out that the composer considered the musical accompaniment no less important than the part for the singer, unlike other composers who devote most of their attention to the vocal part.

Plays "Ephiphanias"

The second to be played was "Ephiphanias" or "Die Heilige Drei Konige," a humorous piece written in December 1888. Next came "Prometheus," a much heavier number, with accompaniment by the London Symphony Orchestra. This is the famous poem in which Zeus is cursed and defied by the man who stole fire from the Gods. This piece shows the influence of Wagner.

Afterwards the audience heard three lighter numbers sung by a soprano and these were followed by John McCormack's able interpretation of "Ganymede," which is diametrically opposite to "Prometheus" insofar as its theme is concerned. The last two numbers played were the "Genialischen Treiben" and the gay, sauntering, and imitatively harmonic "Rattenfänger" which English students know under the name of the "Pied Piper of Hamelin." The meeting was closed with the serving of refreshments and the announcement that a Komersabend would be held in two weeks.

est. The novelty introduced was in the form of a draw which took place yesterday. The men's names were placed in a hat, and the women's names in another one, and partners were thus drawn. The result of the fate-determined pairing was published in yesterday's Daily and the men are expected to get in touch with their partners before tonight.

To those who were a little timid, the committee in charge sold tickets which entitled them to bring whoever they wished to the affair. The more adventurous took chances and they knew yesterday how Lady Luck had behaved towards them. The event will be of a purely informal nature and the music will be supplied by Howard Simpson and his Privateers.

There are still a certain number of tickets available and these can be obtained at the door for one dollar per couple. Those who prefer to come alone are assured that the committee will take care of the necessary introductions.

In short, those in charge certify that whichever way the merry-makers come, whether it be with the partner allotted to them by chance, or with their one and only or stag, they will have a most enjoyable time.

and other items pertaining to the more complete enjoyment of the night attended to, so as to leave no doubt of the success of the dance. Since this is the first time that Arts and Commerce have held their annual dances together it is expected that there will be a much greater demand for tickets, which while there is still some time, yet, should be secured as soon as possible.

First year men have already been delegated the task of selling the tickets via the telephone, but in case of omission of names, any who desire to attend the dance would be well advised to buy their tickets without waiting to be asked.

The Theatres

"THE GOAT SONG," a play in 5 acts by Franz Werfel. Produced at the Imperial Theatre by the Montreal Art Theatre.

Werfel's drama offers by the nature of the intrinsic merit of its dramatic construction and the wealth of ideas it possesses, at once an attractive and dangerous opportunity to the actors. It will hide blemishes of production with its action, good acting will be credited to the power of the playwright but, by contrast, it will reveal also the weakness of the presentation.

It is hard therefore to try and disentangle and adjudge, without confusing the play itself, with its interpretation. "Goatsong" is a powerful, dramatic exposition of fear, superstition, of the essence of revolt as it affects different human types, and the cyclical progression of change. It is cast in the form of a peasant drama; the locale, the Balkans; the time, the turn of the nineteenth century.

The direction of the play was well executed except for very tardy shifting of acts. The scenery was in the main effective, but the lighting could with advantage be improved upon.

The acting itself was uneven. The most difficult role of the student Juvan, taken by Peter Friedman, was spoiled by a hasty pouring out of words, although one could sense that Mr. Friedman understood the part well. Adequate performances were given by Walter O'Hearn (as Steven Millo) and Elsie MacRae (Stanja). Miss May McGregor (Milio's wife) and Louis Shapiro (Mirko) feel somewhat bewildered on the stage. The roles of the physician, and the Jew were well done by Harry Davis and Albert Miller, respectively. These were the so-called "character parts," time honored in drama.

The change of act 4 from the church to the council-room of the elders did not affect the dramatic background, but the manufactured prologue was unnecessary, and the subterranean voice which pronounced it, made it even more so.

Not a brilliant performance on the whole, but one which with improvements may give hope for the growth of a good theatre in this city, if helped by the persistence and willingness of the company. (R. L.)

four seasons, and have produced downhill and cross country skiers of more than ordinary ability. Tests and practice have developed slalom technique amongst Toronto skiers so that it compares favorably with that of their rivals in Ottawa and Montreal, and consequently good competition in all phases of ski-ing is anticipated this week end. Teams of eight are due from McGill and St. Patrick's Universities.

Inter-city Events

An inter-city jumping and a combined relay and slalom competition takes place at the same time as the intercollegiate meet and strong teams from the Ottawa Ski Club, and from the Viking, Montreal and Red Birds ski clubs, all of Montreal, are entered. The letter club is entering four competitors and the others eight apiece, the names to be announced later in the week.

Spectacular jumping is anticipated from the Club's giant hill which is the largest in Eastern Canada and of Olympic proportions. Thorne Pickering and Herb Elliott will act as judges of the jumping. Among the outstanding Quebec ski officials present will be C. Tollefsen, who is chairman of the Province of Quebec Ski Board. Arrangements generally are in the hands of Gorman Kennedy, sports director of The Seignior Club, who is assisted in Ottawa by Eddie Condon, who has done a great deal to encourage inter-scholastic, inter-city and inter-collegiate ski-ing in his part of the world.

ESSAY CONTEST

Announcement of Prize

The ROBERT OWEN FOUNDATION, a non-political, Canadian organization, incorporated in the Dominion of Canada in 1932 for the purpose of encouraging, by education and otherwise, the co-operative organization of industry and community, will grant a Cash Prize of $50.00 to the writer of the best essay, not exceeding 3,000 words in length, on one of the following subjects:

1. Why and how existing industrial enterprises should be organized on a co-operative basis.

2. Study of co-operative effort by unemployed citizens. Essayists writing on this topic should give a history or record of any one or more examples of co-operative self-help by unemployed citizens, in establishing communities, exchanging products or services, operating industrial enterprises, etc.

3. The place of co-operative societies within a socialist state. By this it is intended that the essay should develop the arguments for and against co-operative control of agriculture, industry and distribution in a state wholly socialistic or in the process of becoming such.

The contest is open to all persons under thirty years of age, living in Canada. The essays must be mailed to the President of the Robert Owen Foundation, Mr. H. E. Langford, 91 Gothic Ave., Toronto, before March 15, 1934. The name of the writer should be submitted on a separate sheet, together with a note stating address, occupation, place and date of birth, and education received.

The decision of the Robert Owen Foundation, in awarding the prize, will be final.

The essays will become the property of the Robert Owen Foundation, and may be published by it as it sees fit.
